

together scholars from a range of regional and academic backgrounds and to facilitate dialogue among the different fields and approaches.

The YHGD is centrally dedicated to the study of past developmental theories, policies and practices, including those with a direct bearing on present-

